FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 12, 1882.

Effect of Gloom on Children. It was my misfortune to be the child of parents who were the reverse of cheerfulness. My father was an inveterate grumbler;

his business cares 'worried' him; and it was his custom to tell mother, within my hearing, how dark business matters looked, how he was getting to be on old man and no doubt had seen his best days, ect., as you have probably heard people complain in your time. He 'talked for talking's sake, as the phrase goes; but I, a sensitive child, did not understand that; every word he said sunk to the depths of my loving heart, and I would steal away and cry myselfill in pity for the the lonely fatherless child I was soon, no doubt, to become. My father is now in very truth an 'old man' but with as fair a hand, my mother was a quiet, reticent person, with the keenest sensibilities. She seldom spoke of her worries, but her face was a true index of her feelings; and I noted her varying expressions and drew my own conclusions. I read in a paper of mothers and wives, who in their unhappiness would take poison, or hang, or drown themselves, and I had a haunting fear that such would be the fate of my own dear mother.

95 PER CENT.

96 all diseases arise from deranged kidneys and liver, and it strikes at once at the root of the difficulty. The elements of which it is composed act directly upon these great organs, both as a food and restorer, and, by placing them in a healthy condition, drive disease and pain from the system.

For the innumerable troubles caused by unhealty Kidneys, Liver and Urinary Organs; for the distressing Disorders of Women; for Malaria, and for physical derangements generally, this would be the fate of my own dear mother. She had a way of sighing over her work which was most distressing to hear; while one of her favorite expressions was 'Ah me! I'm weary of the world literally; I felt sure that she would find some way of leaving a scene which so wearied her; and I hung upon her steps like the veriest watch-dog. I never told her of my fears. If I only had, how quickly she would have set me right. But there is the mischief of it. For some unaccountable reason children keep most of their perplexities to themselves instead of telling them to some kind friend, who could with a few explanatory words solve their doubts. I can now see the utter absurdity of my fears in both cases, but to me then they were as real life. Of course there are other children living at the present time who are as sensitive and nervous as I was, and for their sake parents should endure the small troubles of life with cheerful courage
